Liechtenstein

3. When a member joins the Association the following personal data are recorded:

- Name
- Address
- Birthdate
- Bank details
- Phone number
- Email address

This information is stored in the Association's own computer system. A membership number is assigned to each member of the Association. The personal data is protected by suitable technical and organizational measures from third parties.

According to the GDPR, the processing of personal data is legitimate if it is necessary for the fulfilment of a contractual relationship – in the case at hand: becoming a member of the Association.

4. For further personal data and for personal data to be published in the Association's publications and online media, a written declaration of consent from the member is required in accordance with the GDPR. For this purpose, a corresponding form of the Association must be signed by the member. The decision to collect further personal data and publish them is made voluntarily by the member. The member can revoke this consent with effect for the future at any time without adverse consequences by giving notice to the Association's board.

5. Upon resignation from the Association, the member's personal data will be deleted from the membership data administration. Personal data relating to the treasury management will be kept in accordance with the tax regulations for up to ten years from the written confirmation of the withdrawal by the board. The data will be blocked.

6. The member has the right to be informed from the Association about stored data concerning the member as well as to their correction and deletion of the corresponding data. This also refers to a restriction of data processing or an objection to data transfer. A corresponding request is to be made in writing to the board.

7. The member has a right of complaint concerning data protection matters. The competent authority for such complaints is the:
